About Vidyo Extension for Google® Chrome™ Version 2.1.0 (006)

If you use Google Chrome, Google Gmail, and Google Calendar, you can use the Vidyo Extension for Google Chrome to invite participants to Vidyo meetings.

To obtain the Vidyo Extension for Google Chrome, you must use your Chrome browser and go to the Google Chrome web store at <https://chrome.google.com/webstore/detail/send-a-vidyo-invite/gammckdpcgijghgmfdefkdingbnolbbi> or go to the Vidyo website at <http://www.vidyo.com/support/software-downloads/>.

Notes:

- For information about how to install and use the Vidyo Extension for Google Chrome, refer to the Vidyo Extension for Google Chrome Quick User Guide.
- The Vidyo Extension for Google Chrome requires a Vidyo API Enablement Key. For information about how to obtain this key, contact your Vidyo sales representative or Vidyo Customer Support.
- The Vidyo Extension for Google Chrome version 2.1.0 does not support localization of the meeting invite text.

What's New in this Release

❖ New Ways to Join Vidyo Calls

- Links are automatically populated in the Video Call field of every calendar invitation. When you click on the link, you are redirected to the scheduled call.

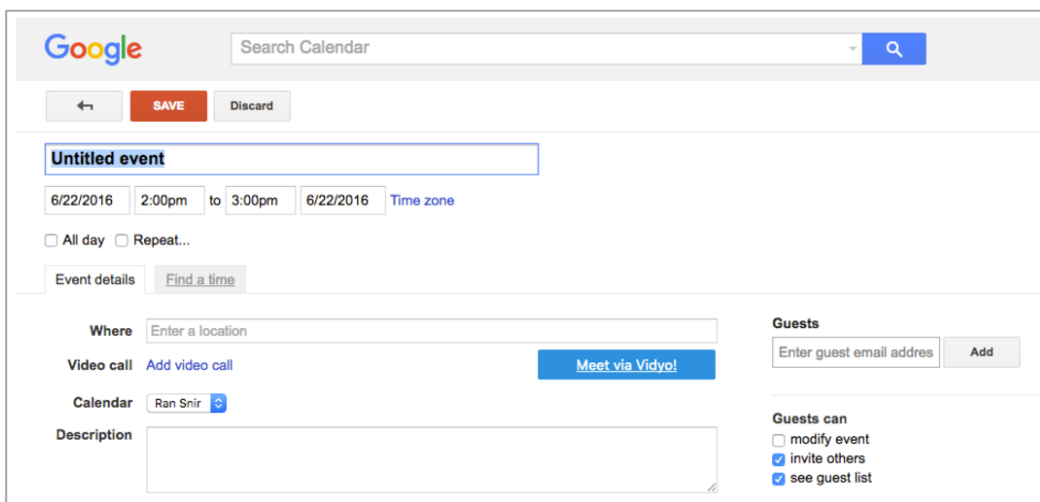

- Calls can also be joined instantly from the calendar view by clicking the Join video Call link in the Vidyo Meeting Invite pop-up.

❖ Easier Ways to Send Vidyo Call Invitations

- The new embedded Meet via Vidyo! button allows you to turn any calendar event into a Vidyo Call invitation.

❖ New Show Me As Default

- By default, the Show me as radio button is now set to Busy instead of Available for all newly created calendar events.
